Cross-Sector Perspectives Highlight Resilient Demand

In this note, we've synthesized comments from 60 recent events across sectors to illustrate what industry leaders think about seven key topics: consumer and business demand; cost inflation, pricing power, and margins; capital allocation, and regulation. On balance, the feedback suggests that we're currently in an execution-led environment. Demand remains durable where spending is supported by structural investment in AI / data centers, defense/cyber, and healthcare. Recently, the UBS Economics team explored the spillover of AI to the broader economy. Consumer strength remains concentrated among affluent households and companies with differentiated brand positioning, while price strategies differ.

- Consumer demand: Spending is resilient but increasingly bifurcated. Affluent, brand-led, value-promotional and outcome-based categories are holding up, while fuel volumes, large home-improvement projects and selected discretionary categories show greater price sensitivity.
- Business demand: Growth is concentrated in data-center and AI infrastructure, closed digital advertising ecosystems, federal defense/cyber, automation and select healthcare product launches. Residential-adjacent activity, open-web advertising and broad chemicals demand remain softer.
- Cost inflation: Cost pressure is company- and input-specific rather than a uniform macro shock. Companies are managing freight, tariffs, wages, fuel and commodities through surcharges, contractual pass-throughs, procurement timing and productivity, with varying P&L lags.
- Pricing power: Pricing is strongest where scarcity, brand equity, product differentiation or measurable ROI supports it. It is weakest in reimbursement-dependent healthcare, price-transparent digital channels and commoditized chemicals; some consumer companies are deliberately trading price for traffic.
- Margin outlook: The bias is constructive, but companies are earning expansion through synergies, mix, productivity, integration and cost programs rather than broad volume leverage. Chemicals and selected investment-heavy or reimbursement-sensitive businesses carry the clearest near-term downside.
- Capital allocation: Balance-sheet repair and organic reinvestment generally come before buybacks, while elevated asset values limit appetite for large-scale M&A. Repurchases become a more credible catalyst as leverage targets are reached and major investment programs roll off.
- Regulation: Healthcare remains the largest source of regulatory asymmetry, driven by the potential 2027 reinstatement of the Protecting Access to Medicare Act (PAMA), laboratory reimbursement changes, Medicare Advantage (MA) Stars dynamics, and potential expansion of the Molecular Diagnostic Services Program (MolDX). Across other sectors, key regulatory watchpoints include biofuel policy, bank core-provider oversight, tariffs, and permitting.

Within this report, we highlight specific company and expert commentary about each of these topics.

CROSS-SECTOR PERSPECTIVES ON DEMAND, PRICING, MARGINS, AND CAPITAL ALLOCATION

CONSUMER DEMAND

Consumer spending remains resilient in aggregate but is increasingly bifurcated between higher-income, brand-led categories that continue to grow and price-sensitive volume categories seeing outright demand destruction.

Selective consumer demand remains resilient across differentiated and structurally growing categories:

- The Hardlines team hosted an expert from an analytics firm with an extensive panel of consumer traffic and spending data. The expert characterized consumers as "selective, not stretched," noting that retailers with compelling assortments continue to convert traffic, while those with weaker merchandising are underperforming. Target's August store comparable sales increased approximately 7.5%, supported by roughly 7% traffic growth—evidence of company-specific merchandising execution rather than broad-based macro strength. The expert attributed softer luxury demand primarily to a rotation toward experiences and argued that wealth creation is increasingly displacing wage growth as the key driver of consumer spending. (Full Report)
- Birkenstock reported strong back-to-school demand and growing use as a Holiday gifting brand around Boston clogs, with improved pre-production and inventory planning. Closed-toe remains the largest growth opportunity, roughly 75–80% of inventory is core product with newness introduced through updated colors, materials, buckles and refreshed silhouettes, factories are operating at 100% utilization, and more than 90% of wholesale growth continues to come from existing doors. Management emphasized limited discounting and continued full-price selling despite a pressured consumer backdrop. (Full Report)
- HF Sinclair noted global refined-product inventories remain below historical norms, consistent with steady end-consumer fuel demand, even as refinery disruptions in Russia and parts of the Middle East tighten supply. (Full Report)
- Philip Morris said the US nicotine pouches category is growing more than 20%, attracting users from oral tobacco and vapor, with the ZYN Ultra strength range building distribution. (Full Report)

Demand pressure is emerging in price-sensitive and discretionary categories:

- ARKO Petroleum sees active demand destruction in fuel with gasoline prices above $4/gallon, driving volumes lower; for every $1/gallon increase in fuel costs, APC retains an extra $0.0125/gallon of margin through prompt-pay discounts, and management is protecting margin rather than sacrificing per-gallon economics. Despite volume headwinds, APC remains confident in its $156M Adjusted EBITDA and $110M DCF guides for FY26. (Full Report)
- Home Depot said uncertainty is causing homeowners to delay larger discretionary projects even when they intend to undertake them; strength is concentrated in repair-and-maintenance categories such as hardware and paint. Delivery reliability — not just speed — has become the principal competitive differentiator, particularly for professional customers, and 13 of 16 merchandising departments generated positive comparable sales growth in 2Q. Home Depot targets $400M of incremental sales this year from SRS cross-selling, and more than 90% of stores have already participated in at least one SRS QuoteCenter transaction. (Full Report)
- A U.S. digital-advertising expert with visibility into approximately $800M of retail and e-commerce budgets identified softer spending in leisure—including rideshare and dating—and Consumer Packaged Goods, offset by strong growth in B2B and gaming and a recovery in auto. (Full Report)

BUSINESS DEMAND

Business spending is concentrated in data-center construction, ecommerce-linked digital advertising, federal defense/cyber, AI/automation and healthcare product launches, while residential-adjacent and lower-tier consumer channels remain softer.

AI infrastructure and defense spending underpin durable secular growth:

- Parsons Corp said Products are becoming a larger part of the story, currently representing about 10% of Federal revenue (~$300M) and growing 30–40%. Cyber and electronic warfare are among the fastest-growing businesses at roughly 20% of revenue growing 8–10%. JCHK is a $750M five-year award funded at 74 units annually for three years ($150M revenue/year), the first ~30 units were delivered at breakeven under discounted LRIP pricing, and the company has secured ~$40M of chip inventory. Biometric solutions are currently deployed in more than 100 embassies under a ~$392M, 10-year contract, and MDA TEAMS represents a ~$250M annual revenue base with a 20% surge capacity clause. The contracting environment remains healthy with proposal volumes at record levels, ~$400M of OTA awards to date, and only ~2% of 2H guidance depending on new business awards. (Full Report)

- Linde described US onsite volumes as strongest regionally, with hydrogen production operating at high levels and double-digit percentage growth in 2Q hardgoods sales driven by AI infrastructure. Manufacturing activity has improved, automation-equipment sales in the US point to increased customer confidence, and European onsite volumes have stabilized with some customers lifting demand off take-or-pay levels. (Full Report)

- A UiPath federal partner said UiPath business is "exploding across the board," with a material uptick in IDP/IXP implementations across civilian and defense agencies, particularly Navy and VA (federal is approximately 13% of ARR). A large middle-market UiPath partner said approximately 50% of deals involve accounts-payable automation, with 70–90% of those processes automatable depending on regulatory intensity. (Full Report)

- Comfort Systems CEO Brian Lane reported no slowdown in datacenter construction despite recent state-level audits and moratoriums, with datacenter customers actively reassuring the company on labor commitments; manufacturing/pharmaceutical, chip, medical, and higher-education verticals were all described as continuing to be strong, and the overall project pipeline as "very robust". (Full Report)

Digital advertising — three distinct samples point to durable category growth but persistent open-web pressure:

- Retail and e-commerce sample (~$800M): The U.S., Canada and U.K. panel, which excludes political advertising, indicated approximately 27% year-over-year growth in 3Q26 and raised its 2026 outlook to 28% from 27%. For The Trade Desk, 3Q26 budgets declined 1% versus 3% growth expected, prompting a reduction in the 2026 forecast to 0% from 5%. (Full Report)

- Global diversified sample (~$950M): The e-commerce, pharmaceutical, travel and B2B panel across roughly 50 countries reported 3Q26 growth of 23.5% in the U.S. and 19% in Europe. The expert maintained the 2026 U.S. outlook at 21–22.5% versus 21–22% previously, raised Europe to 19–20% from 18–19%, and preliminarily expects growth above 20% in 2027. For The Trade Desk, the expert lowered 2026 growth estimates to 6–7% in the U.S. from 7.5% and to 5–6% in Europe from 6.5–7%, citing take-rate pressure as advertisers shift from the open exchange toward lower-fee preferred-guarantee transactions. (Full Report)

- Broader digital-channel sample (~$1B): The panel, spanning search, social, retail media, connected TV and programmatic advertising but excluding auto, energy and travel, reported approximately 12.5% growth in 3Q26 and raised its 2026 forecast to 12.5% from 12.0%. For The Trade Desk, 3Q26 spending declined 6–7%, and the 2026 outlook was reduced to a decline of 6–6.5%. (Full Report)

Payments, financial platforms and healthcare volumes provide company-specific growth offsets:

- Fidelity National Information Services expects Capital Markets recurring revenue to improve into 2027 as delayed ACV converts (starting Q4 2026 and into early 2027) and a ~100bp Credit Suisse attrition headwind rolls off. This segment is not expected to have the same ~1pt of M&A contribution in 2026 (this year's guidance includes ~90bps of M&A benefit), and no M&A contribution is assumed in 2027. Banking Solutions faces non-recurring headwinds in early-2027 from difficult comparisons (Q1 2026 growth benefited from ~58% YoY PF increase in Other non-recurring revenue), while 1H 2026 adjusted recurring revenue was disclosed at ~3.8%. (Full Report)

- Fiserv expects a step-up from a low-single-digit adjusted revenue decline in Q3 to mid-single-digit growth in Q4, aided by easier non-recurring comps in Issuing, ramp of new customer contracts, and initial Clover Cash contribution. The ATM/MoneyPass and Student Loan Servicing divestitures (completed early August and early September respectively) create a ~1% and ~2% headwind to Q3 and Q4 adjusted revenue growth, respectively. Argentina anticipation revenue represented ~8% of Merchant Solutions revenue in FY 2025 (~4% of total company revenue) and ~7% in 1H 2026. (Full Report)

- Flywire cited resilient UK international-education demand, with international tuition of approximately £35,000 per student versus £10,000 domestic, and payment penetration at approximately 20% of customer payment volume in the UK (vs approximately 12% last year), versus a longer-term objective of approximately 90%. Flywire has approximately 1,000 US cross-border education customers with substantially all addressable for domestic payment expansion, alongside approximately 3,000 additional prospective institutions. Sertifi's initial opportunity includes approximately $2.5B of US payment volume across software customers that have not adopted Flywire processing. (Full Report)

- Gilead management guided that Yeztugo for PrEP has grown to nearly 95% of patients on $0 copay, with refill/compliance still above 70% early in the launch, and reiterated confidence in the $1B first-year revenue guide; the weekly oral Yeztugo sNDA has a PDUFA on 7 February 2027 and is positioned as switch-driven upside not currently in the $1.8B 2027 consensus. (Full Report)

- Quest Diagnostics described macro trends supporting same-store volume increases (health/wellness, GLP-1 testing, consumer) as "durable," and the consumer business at $250–$300M in annual revenues growing ~30%, accelerating from ~25% in the past. HIX represents ~30bps of annual negative impact (implying ~60bps of y/y headwind in 2H given the lack of impact in 1H). Medicaid is currently ~8% of total revenues and Medicare is 15%. (Full Report)

Cyclical constraints and execution risks temper the broader growth outlook:

- Matador Resources plans to bring only 23 wells online in 4Q26, down from 30–33 in 3Q26, which may result in a slower start to organic growth in 2027; approximately $1.9B of year-end 2026 revolver debt is modeled versus an approximately $2.75B elected commitment. (Full Report)

- Green Plains flagged 3Q ethanol crush margin softness before continued improvement into 4Q26; 2Q26 debt was ~$480M, of which $150M is sequestration-related financing (highest cost of debt, first to be repaid), followed by $60M in cash for 2027 convertible notes due 1Q27. (Full Report)

- From the UBS Global Materials conference, chemical companies described broad demand as "moving sideways" heading into 2027, with automotive OEM trending weaker; electronics (ECL, ESI) and pockets of datacenter/industrial/manufacturing exposure were the exceptions. Ashland faces an approximately $10–12M Hopewell operating-issue headwind in 2026 alongside a $21M Calvert City recovery expected in 2027. (Full Report)

INFLATION

Companies are describing inflation as an idiosyncratic mix of freight, wage, fuel, tariff and commodity dynamics managed operationally, rather than as a uniform macro pressure.

Freight and tariff pressures are being managed through pricing and pass-through mechanisms:

- Masco distinguished inbound freight, which impacts inventory, from outbound freight. Inbound freight is managed via surcharges that are more easily reversed when costs decline, while outbound freight is a period cost the company aims to incorporate into pricing. Plumbing has a typical two-quarter procurement-to-P&L lag, while Paint has a one-quarter lag, though Masco maintains a price/cost-neutral relationship with Home Depot on paint. The majority of the tariff refund benefit is expected to fall to the bottom line. (Full Report)

- Home Depot said energy-related cost increases are currently outweighing the benefits of tariff refunds in many cases, and vendor discussions on tariff-refund sharing remain highly individualized. Despite this, HD was less promotional in 2Q than the prior year and maintained a similar clearance cadence, choosing to preserve value rather than pursue aggressive pricing. (Full Report)

Commodity and feedstock inflation remains uneven across value chains:

- Commentary from the UBS Global Materials Conference highlighted coal-linked cost curves in Asia driving methanol and acetyls price responses (positive for CE/MEOH), while oil-linked chains (PE/PP) have been lagging — a known risk to Dow and LyondellBasell 3Q consensus, with DOW likely revising down guidance to roughly $1.5B versus $1.65B consensus. Axalta noted high-single-digit percent raw-material inflation remains the right level into year-end and into early 2027, and is willing to push more price through in Refinish and Industrial in 2027. (Full Report)

- Linde said higher European natural gas prices are passed through to customers; sustained European inflation could support higher pricing but has not yet done so materially this year (mostly surcharges). (Full Report)

- HF Sinclair expects Canadian crude production growth to widen Western Canadian Select differentials, while increasing Venezuelan crude imports into the US Gulf Coast add pressure on heavy-crude quality differentials — a bearish input-cost signal for certain refiners. (Full Report)

Productivity initiatives are offsetting wage and service-cost inflation:

- Quest Diagnostics said its Invigorate program of ~$150M–$170M in annual savings is currently covering wage and consumables inflation, with margins guided up y/y despite 2Q negative one-timers on mix and fuel; no bad-debt uptick has been seen year-to-date. (Full Report)

- UnitedHealth said Medicaid rate updates are running 6–7%, and that fraud/waste/abuse initiatives have been more favorable than expected — a partial inflation offset rather than absence — trending toward the better end of the –1.0% to –1.7% Medicaid margin target for 2026. (Full Report)

Fuel-cost inflation is pressuring demand but creating selective margin offsets:

- ARKO Petroleum retains an extra $0.0125/gal in margin for every $1/gal increase in fuel costs through prompt-pay discounts — a natural hedge against fuel-cost inflation-driven demand destruction. (Full Report)

Timing and policy effects temper the broader inflation signal:

- Green Plains highlighted that crude prices have remained strong, resulting in fuel alcohol prices remaining resilient and yields continually improving. Management plans to purposely delay monetizing 2026 45Z credits to capture best value — timing rather than input-cost inflation drives EBITDA volatility. (Full Report)

This document is being provided for the exclusive use of YUBO SUI at THE CHINESE UNIVERSITY OF HONG KONG.

PRICING POWER

Pricing power is strongest where scarcity, brand equity, product differentiation or measurable ROI is present, and weakest in reimbursement-dependent, price-transparent digital, and commoditized-chemical settings.

Brand strength, platform scale and merchandising discipline support durable pricing:

- Birkenstock emphasized limited discounting, continued full-price selling and strong demand across key wholesale accounts despite a pressured consumer backdrop. (Full Report)
- Expert-channel evidence from a conversation with digital adverting expert indicates that higher 3Q26 CPMs provided an incremental tailwind for Meta, supported by stronger demand for Reels and Shopping ads, AI-driven improvements across Audience Network, and the rollout of new WhatsApp Business offerings. (Full Report)
- Home Depot is deliberately less promotional than a year ago, maintaining an everyday-low-price philosophy rather than participating in a more promotional environment. (Full Report)

Selective pricing strategies are being used to support traffic, occupancy and transaction growth:

- Domino's Pizza is deliberately using limited pricing of 1–2% (below CPI) and attractive promotions to drive positive order count across all income cohorts. (Full Report)
- Self-storage REITs: CUBE argued the industry can ultimately return to historical new-customer rent growth of 3%–5% annually as supply moderates; Yardi projects new supply falling from 3.2% of stock in 2025 to 2.5% in 2026 and 2.1% in 2027 (versus a 2022-2024 average of 5.6%). PSA is conducting more pricing experiments than at any point in its history, including rate-lock programs, promotions, and pricing transparency initiatives; EXR indicated August move-in rates were down -1% (versus 2Q of +1.1%) with occupancy up 20 bps. (Full Report)

Chemicals pricing remains bifurcated by feedstock exposure and end-market conditions:

- UBS Global Materials Conference highlighted Celanese's ability to pass through Chinese raw-material costs on a daily basis and Ecolab's pricing as a positive revision factor. Conversely, Sonoco flagged lack of pricing in August as a risk, Olin faces pressure from lower caustic prices (including exports), and Axalta acknowledged slightly more negative customer sentiment in industrial exposure that could challenge incremental pricing. (Full Report)

Competitive intensity and reimbursement constraints limit pricing leverage:

- Three U.S. digital-advertising experts, drawing on distinct budget samples totaling approximately $2.75B and spanning retail, e-commerce, pharmaceuticals, travel, B2B, search, social, retail media, connected TV and programmatic channels, consistently identified The Trade Desk as the weakest major platform. One sample reported 3Q26 budgets down 1% versus 3% growth expected and reduced its 2026 outlook to 0% from 5%; a second lowered 2026 growth estimates to 6–7% in the U.S. and 5–6% in Europe, citing take-rate pressure as advertisers migrate from the open exchange toward lower-fee preferred-guarantee transactions; and a third reported a 6–7% decline in 3Q26 and cut its 2026 forecast to a decline of 6–6.5%. Across the samples, Amazon DSP share gains were the common source of competitive pressure. (Ad expert - Series 1, Ad expert - Series 2, Ad expert - Series 3)
- Multiple UiPath customers pushed back on IDP/IXP pricing, with one paying approximately $0.30 per document versus Amazon alternatives potentially priced closer to $0.02–$0.03 — a material pricing gap the company is working through with customers. (Full Report)
- Quest Diagnostics said Medicaid rates (currently ~8% of revenues) would likely pressure the business somewhat in 2027 and 2028. (Full Report)

This document is being provided for the exclusive use of YUBO SUI at THE CHINESE UNIVERSITY OF HONG KONG.

MARGIN OUTLOOK

The margin outlook is generally constructive, but improvements are being earned through synergy capture, mix, productivity and integration rather than pure demand leverage, with several companies flagging near-term investment drags before medium-term expansion.

Synergy capture, portfolio optimization and operating discipline support margin expansion:

- Crescent Energy remains on track to capture the remaining $60–$110M of VTLE synergies through 2H26 and reduced FY26 Adjusted Opex outlook 4% with the 2Q26 update; management is targeting a further ~10% reduction of overall cost structure, with leading-edge Permian well costs $200–$225/ft below VTLE's legacy average. A recent acreage trade increased development density, allowing four wells to be drilled where only one was previously possible. (Full Report)
- ARKO Petroleum remains confident in its $156M Adjusted EBITDA and $110M DCF guides for FY26 despite volume headwinds; prompt-pay discounts and terminal expansion provide incremental margin capture, and terminal-related depreciation is expected to save on cash taxes and lift FCF conversion. APC will earn ~2.5 cents for every 3rd-party gallon stored at USPP terminals, with total available capacity currently more than 50% utilized. (Full Report)
- HF Sinclair expects Lubricants spin comparables to trade at approximately 8.5x–10.5x EBITDA with improving margin optics as a stand-alone; management moved renewable diesel distribution in-house to capture full chain margin, and sourcing local feedstocks has improved renewable-fuels economics. (Full Report)
- Bunge expects capex to decline from approximately $1.7B in 2026 to a run-rate of ~$1.1B by year-end 2027 ($750M sustaining + $300–400M growth/optimization) as major growth projects complete. Commercial synergies from combining Viterra's origination and logistics network with Bunge's crushing assets are expected to be most significant in Argentina, Europe, Canada and the US. (Full Report)
- Parsons Corp continues to expect roughly 10–20bps of margin improvement next year from the original 2026 guide, supported by products growth and operational improvements, partially offset by mix; in Critical Infrastructure, US margins are double-digit and EMEA is low-teens. (Full Report)
- Masco management shifted focus from execution-only to a "consumer brand mindset" with strategic growth investments taken in 2Q26 (the full P&L hit recognized in 2Q26), and benefits over the medium term. Primary KPIs are volume and market share, and management believes it has gained share within Plumbing over the past 12+ months with product vitality index currently at ~30% versus its target of ~25%. (Full Report)

Technology investment and automation create a path to scalable operating leverage:

- Fiserv targets roughly 50bps of annual underlying margin expansion from operating leverage (starting 2027), plus more than 200bps cumulative from Project Elevate (>$500M efficiency program) over 2027–2029, with 2029 benefits 2x 2027. 2026 remains an investment year ($100M incremental 2H technology investment), and the FY 2026 margin guide of ~31–31.5% reflects ~50bps headwind from technology spend, ~50bps from reduced Argentina anticipation, and ~150–200bps from reduced revenue. (Full Report)
- Fidelity National Information Services remains comfortable with underlying margin expansion of ~40–60bps, supported by TSYS synergies and business simplification (TSYS synergy realization expected greater in 2027–2028 than in 2026), while FY 2027 tax rate is expected to normalize to ~13% versus ~11.2% in 2026. FIS has €1.25B of 1.500% senior notes maturing May 2027 that will need to be refinanced; gross debt at end of Q2 2026 was ~$21B. (Full Report)
- Flywire cited AI, customer segmentation and automation as ways to scale without proportional headcount growth; SBC is expected to remain approximately flat while FCF conversion stays approximately 70–75%. Approximately 90% of education revenue and 70% of travel revenue comes from enterprise customers (> $100K LTM revenue), and churn remains below ~1%. (Full Report)

Integration execution and utilization management underpin margin recovery:

- Quest Diagnostics reiterated margins would be up year-on-year despite 2Q one-timers. Corewell margins are expected to approach 10% by year-end (from ~mid-single-digit at acquisition) and to move toward corporate average following consolidation in a new Michigan lab in early 2027 for the $250M business. (Full Report)
- UnitedHealth expects OptumHealth to progress toward the 6–8% target margin with margin expansion points expected in 2027, and Medicaid trending toward the better end of the –1.0% to –1.7% margin target for 2026. Management indicated the 2% annual margin recovery framing was directional rather than explicit guidance. (Full Report)

Mix deterioration and cyclical pressure remain the principal near-term margin risks:

- Green Plains SG&A is on track to the reduced $90M annualized rate (vs $122M in 2025 and $118M in 2024) with capacity to do more, but base-business ethanol crush margins face 3Q softness before continued improvement into 4Q26. Sustaining capex is ~$25M for the year, with the York project at $15–$20M. (Full Report)
- Commentary from chemicals companies presenting at the UBS Global Materials Conference pointed to broad near-term margin pressure across the sector. Chemours expects an approximately 900bp 3Q margin headwind, driven primarily by an unfavorable shift in refrigerants mix from aftermarket to OEM, although management does not anticipate absorption pressure from lower sales or planned second-half turnarounds. More broadly, Eastman Chemical, Olin, Ashland and Sonoco are at risk of finishing toward the lower end of guidance, with Olin facing additional pressure from weaker caustic pricing, including export markets. (Full Report)

CAPITAL ALLOCATION PRIORITIES

Capital allocation is conservative and balance-sheet-led across most sectors, with deleveraging generally prioritized ahead of buybacks and near-term corporate M&A relatively muted given elevated asset pricing.

Balance-sheet repair remains the primary near-term capital priority:

- Crescent Energy is targeting YE26 leverage just below 1.5x (vs 1.9x after 2Q26) and YE27 leverage of ~1.0x, with $1.2–$1.5B of net debt reduction eyed. Near-term M&A seems less likely given elevated asset pricing, with buybacks potentially more attractive. CRGY reduced debt ~$360mm and leverage 0.8 turn in 1H26, repaid its $259M 2029 Senior Notes in July, and is likely to pay down its 2030 Senior Notes callable on 15 October at 104.875. (Full Report)
- Diamondback is prioritizing balance-sheet improvement, base-dividend growth and opportunistic buybacks; activity is unlikely to increase beyond the 5-completion-crew pace supporting 2–3% annual oil volume growth even in a higher-for-longer oil-price camp. (Full Report)
- Matador Resources chipped away at revolver debt with a ~$200mm repayment after the BLM purchase; ~$1.9B of YE26 revolver debt is modeled versus a ~$2.75B elected commitment, and less large M&A is likely near-term given the deleveraging focus, though brick-by-brick deals continue. (Full Report)
- ARKO Petroleum leverage sits at 3–3.5x (vs 3–4x target range) with >$500M of pro-forma liquidity to fund ~5%/yr acquisitive gallon growth via the balance sheet before considering equity issuance; 17 remaining NTI Fleet Fueling stores are expected by YE26 and ~20 per year thereafter at mid-to-high-teens returns, with ~70 stores remaining in the dealerization program. (Full Report)
- Bunge is prioritizing working-capital needs under elevated commodity prices while reiterating a commitment to return approximately 50% of discretionary cash flow via dividends and repurchases. Glencore is characterized as "in no hurry" to monetize, and management sees several avenues to facilitate an orderly reduction in Glencore's ownership stake, including block placements or Bunge share repurchases. (Full Report)
- Fidelity National Information Services expects leverage to fall to ~3.0x by year-end 2026 and to target the low end of its 2.5–3.0x range medium-term, with share repurchases resuming in 2H 2027 (potentially earlier if divestitures accelerate). (Full Report)
- Fiserv expects leverage to decline to ~3x by year-end 2026 and is targeting the low end of its ~2.5–3.0x range over the medium term, while maintaining an investment-grade credit rating; management expects to prioritize share repurchases as capacity improves. (Full Report)

Shareholder returns are balanced against disciplined organic reinvestment:

- Masco is primarily interested in M&A opportunities within its core plumbing, paint and wellness categories, and absent those intends to deploy excess cash to share buybacks; longer-term selectivity extends to NA residential new construction, particularly manufactured housing and homebuilders outside the top-20. (Full Report)
- Green Plains models ~$25M sustaining capex for the year, with plans to pay off $150M sequestration-related financing first (highest cost of debt), then $60M cash for 2027 convertible notes due 1Q27. (Full Report)
- HF Sinclair reiterated a commitment to return at least 50% of adjusted net income via dividends and buybacks; the Lubricants spin was framed as freeing capital allocation flexibility, with capital deployed to expand marketing, midstream and renewable-fuels distribution rather than large-scale M&A. Large-scale M&A is not a strategic priority; management is focused on expanding higher-multiple, lower-volatility businesses, particularly marketing and midstream. (Full Report)
- Domino's Pizza balance sheet supports capital-return continuity; net debt/EBITDA is at 4.2x in 12/26E with a small equity FCF yield of 5.7%. (Full Report)

This document is being provided for the exclusive use of YUBO SUI at THE CHINESE UNIVERSITY OF HONG KONG.

Portfolio optimization and targeted strategic actions provide incremental catalysts:

- Ashland is working with an activist, has added two board seats and set up a new capital-allocation committee tasked with a repurchase plan, continuing dividend increases, evaluating M&A and reviewing strategic alternatives. (Full Report)
- Air Products expects the majority of the tariff-refund benefit to fall to the bottom line and sees buybacks as a possible factor in 2H 2027 as free cash flow and balance sheet improve. (Full Report)
- Home Depot's SRS integration has already generated meaningful cross-selling opportunities, targeting $400M in incremental sales from these initiatives this year, with more than 90% of Home Depot stores having participated in at least one SRS QuoteCenter transaction. (Full Report)

Disclosure practices can create near-term signaling risk and market volatility:

- Fiserv does not routinely release an 8K reaffirming guidance ahead of every public appearance, and there was no intention to signal anything about the outlook by not doing so recently — a reminder that regulatory-adjacent disclosure practice can drive market misinterpretation (UnitedHealth made analogous remarks about not issuing an 8K ahead of a recent conference presentation). (Full Report)

REGULATION

Regulation is the clearest source of asymmetric downside risk, concentrated in US healthcare reimbursement (PAMA, MA Stars, MolDX expansion), biofuel policy, community-bank core-provider oversight, tariffs and defense/data-center permitting.

Healthcare reimbursement and quality:

- Laboratory reimbursement risk is rising. The expert views 2027 PAMA reinstatement as highly likely, with final rates expected in mid-November and the largest preliminary cuts concentrated in PCR and NGS, including 30% for the leading PCR test. Quest Diagnostics and Labcorp appear relatively insulated by commercial-contract decoupling from the CLFS, while smaller specialty laboratories face greater exposure. Additional risks include a reassessment of pathology code 88305, potentially affecting several hundred million dollars of annual revenue at each large lab from 2028, and national MolDX expansion, which could delay new-test launches by 12–24 months. (Full Report)

- Quest Diagnostics said PAMA is the biggest remaining uncertainty with ~$100M in risk if PAMA returns before any cost remediation; Medicare is 15% of revenues, Medicaid ~8% (expected to pressure 2027 and 2028), HIX ~30bps annual impact reiterated. Management called out unclear hospital participation in the data-collection process, noting a portion of the negative impact could be offset via cost savings. (Full Report)

- UnitedHealth said MA Stars for payment year 2028 (released in early October) had been planned around a range of scenarios; management expects Star cutpoints to keep rising as plan results improve and CMS attempts to maintain a relatively constant distribution. UNH highlighted 10 of 12 HEDIS metrics improved, some pressure on CAHPS survey results, and that the company can absorb slippage by concentrating growth in higher-rated plans over the next two years. Management's view is that Stars data supports mid-teens earnings growth annually. (Full Report)

Biofuel policy visibility:

- Bunge said the EPA's decision to proceed with 100% Small Refinery Exemption (SRE) reallocation provides a meaningful degree of demand certainty and removes a key overhang for the broader agricultural value chain; renewable diesel producers and refiners now have clear visibility into their RIN obligations under the RFS program. (Full Report)

- HF Sinclair expects renewable diesel and refining fundamentals to remain constructive; management does not see Western Gateway and Go West as competing projects, with a potential FID on the first phase of Go West by year-end 2026, and this could be a second project on which DINO and PSX potentially partner. (Full Report)

- Green Plains highlighted potential regulatory tailwinds from foreign mandates that could push the US government forward on E15 and increase California blending. (Full Report)

Bank technology oversight:

- Fiserv: The Federal Reserve, FDIC and OCC clarified their risk-based supervision of core service providers to community banks, focusing on provider transparency, service-level accountability, pricing and billing practices, deconversion fees, third-party integration restrictions, technology investment, cybersecurity incidents and operational resilience. Fiserv characterized the review as an industry-wide regulatory process that began last fall, acknowledged overlap with previously discussed customer concerns, and highlighted steps to improve customer support, platform stability, negotiation transparency and technology investment. (Full Report)

- Fidelity National Information Services: FIS views regulators' concerns about closed ecosystems, product modularity and vendor lock-in as consistent with the industry's existing shift toward more open architectures, noting that the inquiry appears focused on credit unions and smaller community banks. (Full Report)

Litigation, tariffs and permitting:

- Chemours announced settlement of the NC PFAS case for $455M, the last outstanding state suit; the company continues to negotiate on a proactive settlement with WV (no suit filed) and Personal Injury MDL remains the last major open item on PFAS. (Full Report)
- Axalta/Akzo merger completion is expected in 1Q27 with $600M synergy targets, and no specific anti-trust divestment concerns were noted by AXTA — though the merger review is still pending and investor focus centers on the wood business and refinish (more Europe vs NA). (Full Report)
- Masco expects the majority of the tariff refund benefit to fall to the bottom line, with strategic investments allocated to growth in-line with normal course of business. (Full Report)
- Parsons Corp noted that recent audits/moratoriums on data-center construction have not slowed pipelines; the contracting environment remains healthy with record proposal volumes and OTA awards of roughly $400M to date, with only ~2% of 2H guidance depending on new business awards. (Full Report)

Policy and disclosure uncertainty:

- Political advertising should provide a modest but uneven contribution to digital-advertising growth. Within an approximately $800M retail and e-commerce sample spanning the U.S., Canada and the U.K., the expert sees no direct political-budget exposure but expects broader second-half spending to benefit from U.S. midterm-election activity. By comparison, an expert tracking approximately $950M of global e-commerce, pharmaceutical, travel and B2B budgets incorporates roughly one percentage point of U.S. political-spending tailwind into the 2026 forecast, while noting that upcoming European elections could temporarily weigh on regional budgets. (Ad expert - Series 1, Ad expert - Series 2)
- UnitedHealth argued that its non-issuance of an 8K reaffirming guidance ahead of a recent conference presentation should not be read as signaling — a case study in how regulatory-adjacent disclosure practice can drive market misinterpretation. (Full Report)

Valuation Method and Risk Statement

Equity market returns are influenced by corporate earnings, interest rates, risk premia, as well as other variables influenced by the business cycle. The outlook for any and all of these variables is subject to change. Forecasting earnings and corporate financial behavior is difficult because it is affected by a wide variety of economic, financial, accounting, and regulatory trends, as well as changes in tax policy.

Investing in structured investments involves significant risks. For a detailed discussion of the risks involved in investing in any particular structured investment, you must read the relevant offering materials for that investment. Structured investments are unsecured obligations of a particular issuer with returns linked to the performance of an underlying asset. Depending on the terms of the investment, investors could lose all or a substantial portion of their investment based on the performance of the underlying asset. Investors could also lose their entire investment if the issuer becomes insolvent. UBS does not guarantee in any way the obligations or the financial condition of any issuer or the accuracy of any financial information provided by any issuer. Structured investments are not traditional investments and investing in a structured investment is not equivalent to investing directly in the underlying asset. Structured investments may have limited or no liquidity, and investors should be prepared to hold their investment to maturity. The return of structured investments may be limited by a maximum gain, participation rate or other feature. Structured investments may include call features and, if a structured investment is called early, investors would not earn any further return and may not be able to reinvest in similar investments with similar terms. Structured investments include costs and fees which are generally embedded in the price of the investment. The tax treatment of a structured investment may be complex and may differ from a direct investment in the underlying asset. UBS and its employees do not provide tax advice. Investors should consult their own tax advisor about their own tax situation before investing in any securities.

Important Information About Sustainable Investing Strategies: Sustainable investing strategies aim to consider and incorporate environmental, social and governance (ESG) factors into investment process and portfolio construction. Strategies across geographies approach ESG analysis and incorporate the findings in a variety of ways. Incorporating ESG factors or sustainable investing considerations may inhibit the portfolio manager's ability to participate in certain investment opportunities that otherwise would be consistent with its investment objective and other principal investment strategies. The returns on a portfolio incorporating ESG factors or sustainable investing considerations may be lower or higher than portfolios where ESG factors, exclusions, or other sustainability issues are not considered by the portfolio manager, and the investment opportunities available to such portfolios may differ.
